The power companu in Dundin. Can we plase start prosecuting the management, executive, and director's over mismanagement of these organisations that clearly have been pocket big paychecks at th organisations expense but not don't provided the basic duty-of-care to protect the business and customer supply, through re-investment. Plebs don't get to make the rules or have real input, but these big pocket folks are putting the ship on the reef and walking off.

latest I heard was several city councils, eg Palmerston North that are considering up to 30% rates rise on a single wastewater project ($900 pre annum per ratepayer) - a project that has been fully aware of and unavoidable - but they have lot of staff, all paid very well, and spend lot of time putting up art works most people don't want and redesigning/rebuilding the town square over and over. The elected members don't do anything, and even when they try they are just pacified and ignored.
