Hi

I am in support of Gull being sold and their owners buying Z energy.
I consistently purchase petrol from Gull as they tend to be the more competitive supplier.
By gaining Z Energy's network, they will have better cost efficiencies and more reach.
There are also so many new and expanding suppliers such as NPD and Waitomo, who usually offer cheaper fuel than Z Energy, so no loss to competition.

Z Energy, which like BP tends to have more expensive fuel. By having a lower-priced outfit run their network, it will be a massive win for travellers around the country.

I would love to see Gull's prices on Z Energy stations. Better access to cheaper prices the better.

Z energy's market share is shrinking, so the new owners will take drastic measures to hold their ground through better pricing.

Cheers
