

Kia ora

I strongly support a nationalised supermarket chain to compete with the current duopoly and bring prices down for consumers. No frills, less advertising, more bulk options. Such a supermarket would not need as much consumer choice in terms of products, its goals would be providing cheaper essential groceries.

Thanks

draft