As a supplier to both Foodstuffs North Island and South Island I would highly support the merger between the two companies. For ourselves it would have the following benefits:

Less time spent dealing with two companies as far as dealings and communication.

Increasing speed to market to bring out new products.

Consistent messaging through only dealing with one business.

Less time spent on category reviews.

Consistent ranging possibilities

We have always been treated fairly by both companies in the past so I don't see this changing through a merger of the two companies.
