Good afternoon

Today we have published information received from Transpower on potential improvements to the information requirements in the capital expenditure input methodology (capex IM).

As part of our capex IM review, we invited Transpower to provide us with more detail on parts of its submission on our proposed focus areas consultation paper. With agreement from us, Transpower provided us with this information on 15 August 2017.

The information is now available on our website at the following link:

We are not seeking submissions on this information at this time. This information will be used to help inform our draft decision, which we will invite submissions on in November 2017.

Kind regards,
Keston Ruxton
